An Iconic Lever-Action Rifle That Loads Multiple Ways

Henry Repeating Arms has a rich name and history that is infused into each of the company's classic, lever-action designs. With its latest model, the company brings a classic loading-gate design into its tube magazine-fed guns, allowing users to top off their rifles any way they like. The Henry Side Gate Lever Action Rifle, chambered in .45-70 Government, still features the same removable tube magazine found in all of the company's guns. However, consumers will see a spring-loaded gate on the side of the receiver that allows for easy loading like other classic side-gate lever guns. Both loading methods work just fine, so you can choose whichever loading method works best for your situation. Barrel length: 19.8 inches Overall length: 38.1 inches Weight: 7.09 pounds Magazine capacity: 4 rounds Other features found on the Henry Side Gate Lever Action Rifle include a hardened brass receiver that has the same yield and tensile strength as a steel receiver. The barrel band and buttplate are also made from brass, and the gun is completed with beautiful, American walnut furniture complete with deep checkering. The gun features a 20-inch blued barrel, which is topped by a buckhorn rear sight and an ivory-bead front sight.
